

Ravenheat Manufacturing's Energycatcher received the Innovation award at this year's Gas Industry Awards luncheon, held at the Hilton Hotel, London. Minister of State for Energy Malcolm Wicks MP (above left) presented the award to Ravenheat's managing director, Louis Pickersgill (above right). The Award citation commended the Ravenheat team for "the development of a ground-breaking heat recovery and recycling system that actively captures heat currently wasted with the exhaust gases of domestic condensing boilers". The Leeds-based company claims that this product will harness at least 5% extra energy from the boiler's exhaust gases. Pickersgill said: "We at Ravenheat know this is something special that will become a standard for all gas boilers and it is gratifying to know that our colleagues in the industry agree."